Membership of New York Department Expected to Exceed 100,000 This Year; Drive Brings Results

Suggestion Made That Each Post in State Become Agency to Aid Veterans in Collection of Bonus

While official verification has not been given by state headquarters of the American Legion, it is safe to predict at this time that the total membership of the Legion in the department of New York will exceed 100,000 for the year 1921.

Added impetus has been given to the campaign for new Legionnaires by the success of the organization's fight for beneficial legislation, laws which will better the conditions under which disabled and wounded veterans are living and will grant a bonus to other ex-service men and women.

The state is leading all other departments in the country by many thousands members and when the national convention is called to order in Kansas City next fall probably will have a delegation present which will outnumber any others there.

A suggestion was made by state headquarters yesterday by which it is hoped to give even greater impetus to the membership drive. It is that each post in the state make itself an agency for the collection and filing of bonus applications. In this way, it is pointed out, the veterans who are not enrolled will come to recognize the Legion as an agency for their own benefit and will be anxious to become members.

Federal Bonus Up To-day

All Legionnaires will be interested to-day in the proceedings of the United States Senate, at Washington, when Senator McNamara will go before that body with the American Legion's adjusted compensation measure.

Leaders in the Legion are confident that McNamara will pass the measure by a substantial majority.

Legion Demands This Match

War veterans of Brooklyn, those represented in the American Legion, have demanded that Martin Plestina, heavyweight wrestler, be given an opportunity to meet Stanislaus Zbyszko, the champion of that class, in a match for the heavyweight title.

The Legion is ready and is anxious to assume the responsibility of procuring a suitable purse for the match and thus far has been unable to persuade Jack Curley to promote the match.

Plestina has been a consistent challenger of the world's best wrestlers, but has been unable to gain recognition from those who control the game. It may be that Curley, spurred by the desire of war veterans to have the question of Plestina's ability settled for all time, will consent to a match between this wrestler and the champion.

At any rate the Brooklyn veterans propose to continue their demand until they are recognized.

Arthur Viens Dinner

All former functions of the Arthur Viens Post were overshadowed by their annual dinner at the Ben-Hur, City Island, on Tuesday evening. All the notables of the Legion in New York State attended and more than 200 members of the post and its auxiliaries were there. The Powers Brothers entertained the guests and there were addresses by some of the guests.

Post Activities

One of the active posts of the Legion in this community is the William Clinton Post, of Freeport, N. Y. The next meeting will be held to-morrow night.

The auxiliary of the Arthur Viens Post will meet next Monday evening at the Independence League Club, 479 East Tremont Avenue.

The Richard J. McNally Post held a back party last night in 1313 street, between Audubon and St. Nicholas avenues. More than 1,500 persons attended. The

Soldiers Honor Memory Of Galbraith Sunday

Legionnaires of greater New York will honor the memory of Frederick W. Galbraith Jr., late national commander of the American Legion, next Sunday with services at Old Trinity Church, Broadway and Wall Street.

The eulogy will be delivered by Bishop William T. Manning, and it is anticipated that every Legion post in the five boroughs will send a delegation, with their post colors, to the ceremony.

Veterans who attend the services are asked to wear their uniforms.

street was elaborately decorated with flags of the Allied nations.

Tiger Post invited all ex-service men who are interested in the African expedition and hunting of ex-President Roosevelt to attend the next meeting of Tiger Post and most Edmund Heller, who was the taxidermist of the Roosevelt expedition. Dr. Heller will tell of hunting lions in the interior of Africa and will show some films taken in action. The post meets at 170 East Sixtieth Street to-morrow night.

The Accountants' Post will meet this evening in the library of the American Institute of Accountants, 135 Cedar Street. Robert H. Montgomery, post commander, will discuss the economic conditions of France.

Many Employers Agree To Aid Training Camp

Workers May Attend Without Loss of Pay or Prejudice to Their Promotion

J. Lloyd Derby, chairman of the corporations section of the New York Committee of the Military Training Camps Association, announced yesterday that many banks, manufacturers and other corporations had agreed to permit a fair number of their employees to attend the camp this summer without loss of pay or prejudice to their advancement.

The elementary military course will begin August 7 and continue to September 6. These firms, which are situated in the city and throughout the state, are said by Mr. Derby to be following the precedent of 1918, when hundreds of employers joined in the Flattsburg idea and allowed workers to attend one of the camps. The executive committee of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants has adopted a resolution calling on the association membership to show approval of the movement, started by Major General Wood and the late Theodore Roosevelt by giving their employees this privilege.

Among the first of the New York corporations to endorse the 1921 camp are the First National, the Hanover National and the Chemical National banks, the Bankers Trust Company, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the Brooklyn Union Gas Company, Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. and Seaboard, Haas & McDonald.

Captain James's Plane

Believed Found in River

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 22.—Shad fishermen, who had equipped their boats especially for the task, spent the entire day to-day trying to raise the wreckage in the river bed which has been damaging their nets this season.

They were unsuccessful, but it was noticed after the last attempt that their ropes were stained by green paint. The bottom of the Sopwith-Camel airplanes, in one of which Captain Mansell R. James was lost two years ago flying from Boston to Atlantic City, is painted green and the fishermen believe that they have discovered the lost machine.

Captain James, a Canadian flyer, flew from Atlantic City to Boston the last of May, 1919, and started to return by way of the Berkshire, but neither he nor his airplane was seen after he left Lee, Mass.

Colonel Edward Burr, head of the River and Harbor Navigation Department, was in this city to-day and probably will have two divers on the scene to-morrow to aid the fishermen.

Road Pays $30,000 to Widow Of Conductor, Mother of 7

Mrs. Anna Baylis, of 53 Fifth Street, Long Island City, whose husband, a freight conductor, was killed while assisting in coupling a train of freight cars, received from the Long Island Railroad yesterday the largest award that it has ever granted. She got $30,000.

The settlement was made just as Mrs. Baylis's action against the railroad company was about to go to trial in the Queens County Supreme Court. Mrs. Baylis has seven children. One of them was a week old when the husband was killed, on January 21.
